importance came into view.

And so it went on. First sentiment, patriotism, honest acclaim, and enthusiasm then patriotism, honest acclaim, and enthusiasm, then good-natured jest, a wee bit of sarcasm and a little jealousy because somebody was in the parade and somebody on the side wasn't. But the bands didn't mind; they went right on playing evertyhing from "The Star-Spangled Banner" to "Honey Boy," "Rainbow," or "I Don't Care If You Never Come Back."
